As the Mayor of Llandudno, I would like on behalf of Llandudno Town Council, to convey our sincerest thanks to the members of the NHS who are working incredibly hard at this dreadful time, to provide vital lifesaving services to those affected by the Coronavirus.

The courage, fortitude and determination being shown by those on the front line during this time of crisis, is incredible. Their heroic actions in the face of such adversity, is a credit to them and our entire National Health Service.

It is heart-warming to see a daily outpouring of support from the general public to the work being carried out, not only here in North Wales, but around the entire country. We are truly blessed to have the best health service in the world.

Our thanks also go to everyone who is providing vital services at this time. All the blue light services, the stores ensuring food supplies are always available. The utility companies. The many volunteers who have stepped up to the plate to help us all get through this terrible time in our history. To everyone who is doing their bit, we say 'Thank you'.

As yet we don't know when the end of this crisis will come. But when it does, we must continue to work together in order to get our wonderful town back to normal. To open the shops, hotels and all businesses and, to get the message out that we are again 'Open' as a tourist destination.

Whatever the difficulties this crisis brings, we will get through them and, come out the other side stronger as a community, a town and a country.

As a way of showing our thanks and support to the NHS, the Town Council will be raising flags on the promenade in honour of the incredible work currently being done. We will also be turning the lights to blue at various locations in the town.

As Mayor, I send you my very best wishes and, ask you to continue to adhere to the Governments message of 'Stay Home, Protect the NHS, Save Lives'.

God bless you all.

Cllr Angela O'Grady
Mayor of Llandudno
